

Zac had a big problem. Every time he looked at words on a page they would swim all over like little fish.

Or they would get tangled up together
like a yoyo's string.

Sometimes they floated like the letters in alphabet soup.